HELSINKI, Jan. 20.—At Bay, a Russian division of 20,000 men turned on the Finns today in a desperate battle for survival in the Salla sector.

Its retreat eastward all but cut off, the division threw up constructed fortifications along a line drawn through Markajaervi, 45 miles inside Finland, and struggled to pry apart the jaws of two threatening Finnish columns.

In 68 Degrees Below Weather
For the last two days the Russians have been retreating swiftly in temperatures that plummeted to 68 degrees below zero (Fahr.) It appeared for a time that they might escape the Finnish trap, but apparently today their commanders found it necessary to turn and make a standing fight.

On other fronts relative quiet prevailed.

But from the Arctic Ocean to the Gulf of Finland joy welled through the Finnish ranks over official news that Swedish volunteer airmen were taking an active part in bombing and cutting off the retreat of the Russians in the Salla sector.

One Division Makes Stand Dispatches from the front told of only one Russian division making a stand against the Finns in the brittle cold where the Arctic Circle swings across Finland, but earlier advice said that two divisions, or 40,000 men, were caught in the maws of Finnish detachments.

Infantry from the Swedish volunteer corps has not yet been thrown into action in Finland.

Mysterious Peace Plan Is Reported

Comes To Light In London—
British Government Dis-

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A mysterious nine-point peace plan, fostered by a wealthy Danish sportsman and manufacturer and apparently regarded seriously in several capitals of Europe, came to light in London today.

The British government formally authorized a statement disclaiming Britain's official interest in the scheme, but admitted that an outline of the peace plan had reached the hands of Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

Author of the proposal was Pless Schmidt, whose activities in behalf of peace were hailed by Scandinavian newspapers, one of which went so far as to say that cessation of hostilities would be possible within four days after he had seen President Benito Mussolini and Reichsfuhrer Adolf Hitler.

Indirectly, however, the British statement denied that this government had accepted or was even seriously considering the proposal.

Cold Weather Causes Fires

City Firemen Kept On Jump
As Sub-Zero Weather
Envelopes City

BLAZE THREATENS
SECOND U. P. CHURCH

Sub-zero and near zero temperatures, which have gripped the city since Thursday evening, were the cause of a number of small fires in various sections of the city, but fortunately all were discovered before they had an opportunity to spread and as a result none was serious.

Prompt discovery of a blaze in an air well at the Second U. P. church at 7:10 o'clock this morning, averted what might have been the most serious fire that the firemen had to contend with. Trap doors which enter the air duct from underneath the pulpit were afire when firemen arrived, and had the blaze had a few minutes more of a start, the interior of the church might have been greatly damaged.

The blaze is believed to have started from soot which had accumulated in the bottom of the chimney, which forms one of the walls of the duct, and communicated to some lumber stored in the bottom of the air duct.
Damage amounted to $50, but will not prevent the holding of services, Assistant Fire Chief George Harper stated.

Other Fires
Damage of around $100 resulted at the home of Mrs. Clara Forrest, 4 West Home street, at 3:22 o'clock today afternoon. Chief James E. Thomas and No. 5 and B truck companies went to the scene, and later alarms were turned in from boxes 54 and 85, both adjacent to the scene, calling out several additional companies. The fire started from a defective chimney and caught from the first floor to the roof.

None of the other alarms was for anything of a serious nature.
At 2:58 p. m. Friday firemen were called to the home of C. F. Fickie, 219 East Wallace avenue, where damage of $10 resulted from a fire caused by a defective chimney.

Pope Pledges His Support To Peace Efforts

Communication Is Sent To President Roosevelt By Pope Pius XII

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Pope Pius XII today pledged the support of the Catholic church in President Roosevelt's peace efforts, but warned that the obstacles in the path of the chief executive are daily becoming more difficult to surmount.

In a communication to the President, the Pope expressed his "grateful joy" over Mr. Roosevelt's Christmas peace message to the Vatican and characterized it as an "exemplary act of fraternal and hearty solidarity between the new and old world in defense against the chilling breath of aggressive and deadly godless and anti-Christian tendencies."

The Pontiff's letter was a reply to Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to religious leaders of all sects to unite behind the cause of peace. In this appeal, the President announced that he had named Myron Taylor, the industrialist, as his personal representative to the Vatican.

The Pope's reply was delivered to the White House yesterday by the most Reverend A. G. Cicognani, the apostolic delegate at Washington, who reported Mr. Roosevelt was "very pleased" with its content.

Only men of the highest moral stature will be able to create peace, the Pope declared.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—In tempera-

All along the front, patrols con-

Louisiana Showdown On Feburary 20

Governor Long Facing Battle

Fails To Obtain Majority Of Votes Cast In Recent Primary

RUN-OFF PRIMARY SET FOR FEBRUARY 20

(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 20.—Rapid moves to consolidate anti-Long votes behind Sam Houston Jones today encouraged Louisiana forces seeking the defeat of Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of the late Huey Long.
The showdown will come Feb. 20, when Gov. Long will face Jones in a run-off primary. Although Gov. Long had the greatest number of votes in Tuesday's original primary, Jones and James A. Noe together had enough to beat him—and Noe immediately announced his support of Jones.
An official compilation for 1,619 of the state's 1,703 precincts, issued late last night, gave:
For Gov. Long, 210,821.
For Jones, 142,237.
For Noe, 104,347.

First Run-Off In Years
Fifty thousand votes were distributed among two other candidates. The run-off primary—first in years for this long-dominated state—became automatic for the two top candidates when none obtained a majority.

All of the candidates opposing Long were strongly anti-administration in a campaign which was featured by charges growing out of the federal government's investigation of alleged corruption in high places.

Gov. Long's forces, however, pooh-poohed suggestions that the Jones-Noe vote could be consolidated against him. Gov. Long stated he would not accept Noe's support if it were offered him.

The governor summoned the state legislature to meet in special session today, and it was believed that repeal of the state sales tax would be pushed through it in rapid-fire order.

Mankind can solve every problem. The trouble is that the strong solve their part and then don't give a darn whether the rest is solved.

ALL WHITE ON THE WESTERN FRONT

These wintry scenes along the western front show why there has been so little activity along the battle line—it's too cold for Briton, Gaul or German to do much open air fighting. Top view shows a French infantry patrol advancing through wind-swept wood. In lower photo a group of British mechanics de-icing a pursuit plane following a heavy snowfall "somewhere in France."

ment of claim was a bill of $225 for funeral expenses. This amount the jury agreed upon immediately after going into the jury room it is said.

From about noon until near four o'clock the jury deliberated upon the amount of money it should award and after about forty ballots awarded the funeral expenses, $225 and $10.850.

The girl was drowned on July 14, 1939 when the pool was being drained. In some manner she was drawn into a 12 inch drain pipe and forced through and down the chute 200 feet to Cascade Lake. Death was practically instantaneous.

For the city, Solicitors William D. Cobau and Gilbert Long immediately filed two motions. The first is for judgment N. O. V. (non obstante veredicto) or judgment despite the jury's action. The second motion is for a new trial. In this motion the city avers that the verdict is excessive, that it is against the weight of the evidence, that it is against the law, and that the court erred in not admitting certain evidence.

WANTED ONE WIFE

After all, there's nothing like being particular. From a farm in Boxville, Ky., 24 year old Joe Ellis Baker went to Evansville, Ind., and asked police there to help him find a wife. Qualifications: She may be either blonde or brunette, but must be a good cook, pretty and under 26. But the foregoing combined advantages are not quite enough for choosy Joe. It is absolutely essential that she also have $20,000 so he can buy a farm.

crisis would impel him to stand for a third term. Barring developments of Europe's battle fronts in the next few months that would seriously imperil American security, they think he plans to return to the quiet of his Hudson valley home a year hence.

In this connection it may be noted that Mr. Roosevelt's closest diplomatic advisers have been furnishing him with most pessimistic reports on the European outlook in recent weeks.

Assuming the president plans to call it a day after two terms, however, there is every indication he proposes to have a pronounced voice in choosing the candidate who will succeed him as Democratic standard bearer.

keep their homes warm. After darkness set in, the mercury slowly dropped, but did not approach Friday night's low mark of around 12 below zero.

The present cold wave is the worst which has been recorded since January of 1936, and will probably extend over the week end, government forecasters have indicated.

For the current date, the temperature is the lowest which has been recorded since January 20, 1918, it was stated at the Pittsburgh Weather Bureau.

The cold weather has caused numerous small fires from forced firing, and has caused considerable damage to automobiles whose owners were not prepared for such severe weather. Autos have been difficult to start due to the grease hardening from the intense cold, causing great inconvenience to many.

"THRIFT LUNCHEON" AT TIFERETH ISRAEL

At a board meeting held recently in the home of Mrs. Jack Gerson, Winter avenue, plans were completed for Hadassah's sixth annual "Thrift Luncheon", all proceeds of which will be utilized for the benefit of the undernourished and refugee school children who have finally reached Palestine, and, who will be fed daily under the supervision of Hadassah's School Luncheon Fund.

Mrs. S. Rose and Mrs. J. Lebby, chairman and vice-chairman respectively, announce that their committee has made unique arrangements for this anticipated event, which will take place in the social rooms of Tifereth Israel congregation, Tuesday afternoon, January 23 at 1 o'clock. Mrs. J. Cobb is in charge of decorations.

Entertainment chairman, Mrs. J. Conn, has planned an exceptionally fine program, and as toastmistress, for this luncheon, Mrs. Eli Kaplan has been selected. The Rabbi of the community will participate.

An original song written by Mrs. Melvin Stark, will be dedicated to the work of this much needed fund, which is being taxed far beyond that of former years. The main feature of the program, will be a review of Pierre von Paasen's book, "The Days of Our Years", by a young Pittsburgher, Mrs. Samuel Hurwitz who has already attained recognition for her ability along these lines.

The luncheon which will be patterned after those served to these needy children in Palestine, will be prepared by the following hostesses who are aiding in making this one of the local chapters' outstanding functions of the year: Mrs. P. J. Cohen, Mrs. William Cohen, Mrs. Jack Gold, Mrs. A. Katz, Mrs. J. Raffel, Mrs. M. Stark, Mrs. S. Skole, Mrs. A. Routman, Mrs. M. Schonberger, Mrs. Sam Schwartz, Mrs. B. Moresky and Mrs. S. Rose.

Reservations which are being taken by Mrs. P. Alpern and Mrs. J. Conn indicate a capacity crowd for this child welfare day.

FIRE COMES HOME TO YOU

BY THIS time, most of your New Year's resolutions have probably been broken. It's time to make a new and perhaps more sensible set. And here's one that none of us should miss: "I resolve to do my part to help prevent fire during this and every other year."

If every American would make and keep that resolution, some half billion dollars worth of property would be saved from destruction. Indirect fire loss estimated at several times that figure would be prevented. Infinitely more important, about ten thousand people would be saved from the most ghastly of deaths. And the legion of jobs and opportunities which fire destroys when it strikes at businesses, would be preserved.

Fire isn't somebody else's business. It's your business. You and other people like you, whether you know it or not, are responsible for fire. You benefit every time a fire is prevented. Human ignorance, human carelessness, human failures—these are the things that keep our annual fire loss at an incalculable level. Probably not one fire in ten can honestly be classed as unavoidable. Practically all fires, great and small, can be traced to the human element.

As 1939 came to a close, fire loss in this country was tending upward, by comparison with the same months in other recent years. That means that more of us have been taking chances, and refusing to put into effect the simple precautions that will prevent most fires. And that means also that it's time to take action. Don't forget that the prevention of fire may save your home from ruin—as well as your life.

GOOD RIDDANCE

When people get mad enough they can bring about any reform they want.

And radio "blood and thunder" programs for children have been pretty maddening to many parents.

About a year ago a committee was formed, with the backing of the General Federation of Women's Club and other organizations, to see what could be done about these "thrillers."

The committee went to work on the big broadcasting companies and on the advertising agencies sponsoring the programs.

Already five programs have disappeared from the air and many others, we read, will be withdrawn when their contracts expire.

An effort is now being made to give children humorous programs instead of nightly exciting and injurious crime and detective programs.

The success of this movement shows that radio can be cleaned up as the movies were, when the public demands it.

Wise advertisers, for example, are aware of the public resentment at the constant interlarding of programs with sales talks and bally-hooing, and so they confine their advertising to simple statements of sponsorship before or after their programs.

They realize that many people have become so sick and tired of having otherwise enjoyable programs spoiled in this way that they make it a rule not to patronize the sponsors.

The owners of the 8,000,000 radio sets in this country, valued at $450,000,000 are entitled to something for their money.

And that something is the use of radio for the information and wholesome entertainment of a radio audience that includes a large part of the American people.—Detroit Free Press.

BRITAIN REJECTS ZONE

Great Britain has rejected the security zone established by the nations of the two Americas to prevent belligerent engagements within a belt varying from 300 to 600 miles off-shore. Great Britain evokes both principle and practicality, necessity to prove her point that a security zone of such proportions and with such regulations cannot be accepted.

In a note delivered to the President of the Republic of Panama, the British government argues that under international law belligerent rights include naval action up to the three-mile territorial limit. That is true, of course; but the stand is weakened by the fact that England has often declared that the war emergency justifies her own violations of strict international law. Cannot 21 peaceful nations, then, take joint action to preserve their neutrality even if the three-mile limit is greatly extended?

It is the other argument that is difficult to answer. Great Britain indicates that as yet no patrol has been sufficient to prevent belligerent ships from entering the safety zone. Unless German war vessels are kept out and unless German commercial shipping is laid up under Pan-American control, it is impractical for Britain to recognize the authenticity of the zone arrangement. Otherwise, the statement avers, the plan would afford "a sanctuary for German warships within which His Majesty's ships would be confronted with the insidious choice of having either to refrain from engaging their enemy or laying themselves open to penalties in American ports and waters."

There is a certain advantage for Germany in the present effort to enforce the security zone regulations. Warships may enter, but they may not attack. And of course Germany does not abide by the rules. Even if she did, the immunity belt of 300 to 600 miles out to sea would greatly aid her freighters in running the blockade. Unless the United States, with the help of the other American republics, can provide an effective police patrol, enforcing the rules impartially, the safety zone is likely to be a dead letter.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DO YOUR COLLEGE PLANNING EARLY

Many boys and girls who hope to go to college next year have already done considerable thinking and talking with their parents about the matter. Since they entered the seventh or eighth grade they probably have, with the advice of their home room teacher, special adviser or principal (together with their parents, we trust), been shaping each semester's courses for college entrance.

Some students, alas, have given no thought to the subjects which will have to be covered and credits required for entering college. Some do not get wise guidance in this respect at school or home. Sad may be their disappointment and that of their parents when it is discovered that they have not enough credits in such subjects as mathematics or foreign languages to enter a first class college. For some of these students it still might not be too late to earn, during the final semester, the required credits that are lacking.

If you hope to send to college your son or daughter who is now a senior in high school, you will want to check the facts with the youth and probably with the school also.

Talk to Adviser
Moreover, it might be very profitable to you and your child for you to sit in conference with him and a school adviser, to talk over this child's interests and the particular college or kind of college he desires to enter. This school expert usually has a great deal of wisdom of which parents and children should avail themselves.

Then there's the question of the quality of grades the prospective college student has earned in high school. In order to enter college he will have to rank in the upper third, as a rule, or pass college entrance examinations.

The matter of physical and mental health should be considered; the family purse may have to be.

Recently I visited a high grade junior college, covering the first two years of college with credits accepted by any other high grade college or university. In order to enter this junior college the student must be poor; at least he must be financially unable to enter the average liberal arts college. But he must rank in the upper third of his high school class and be willing to work two and one-half hours a day.

Tragic Situation
It has always seemed to me a tragedy that so many bright young men and women of high character should, for want of funds, be denied college when so many dull, unpromising rich sons and daughters are practically driven to college. Too often the wrong people go to college.

In choosing a college it is well for the youth to consider what he expects to get out of college; what he has to put into it by way of high school achievement, habits of mental work and qualities of character; and the kind of college which should best help him realize this expectation.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

By vote of the Philadelphia City Council, everybody working in the city after January 1, whether resident or non-resident, must pay a one and one-half per cent tax on his salary, wages, commissions or profits. The new tax is expected to raise eighteen million dollars, which is just about enough to balance the city's budget in 1940. Organized labor is already protesting the levy, and will seek an injunction to block it as unconstitutional.

The primary cause of Philadelphia's difficulties, aside from depression in real estate and the expense of unemployment relief which are common to virtually all cities, appears to be its large debt. Its ratio of debt to valuation of taxable property is one of the highest in the country. This is reflected in the disproportionately large amount allotted to debt service in its 1940 budget—twenty-nine million dollars of a total of eighty-one million dollars.

Then Philadelphia, like the key cities of most other metropolitan areas, has probably suffered from decentralization. The new payroll tax is clearly an effort to force the city's "daytime" citizens, who sleep outside its corporate limits, to share in its cost of maintenance.

It will be interesting to watch the effects of the payroll tax on salaries and wages, if the courts uphold the levy. It certainly represents an innovation in city taxation. Where might it not lead?

Dear Miss Markel: What color vase is a good buy? I need a new vase of two and would like your suggestion as to color.—P. L.

Answer: The best colors for vases are putty, brown, soft blues, gray-green and black. Clear glass is also very good, except for flowers with very large heads, which are better balanced in an opaque container. Berries and seed pods look better in pottery or baskets.

Vases in which flowers are to be placed should not be emphatically designed. The flowers should be of more importance than the vase. The vase elaborately decorated may become as important as the flowers in it.

Trotsky Coup May Be Attempted
Believe Stalin Will Be Deposed Trotsky Is Red But Not Brutal

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—

GOSSIP OF a contemplated attempt at a Trotsky coup in Russia leaks out from the circle of Muscovite exiles in Washington.

The theory is that Comrade Stalin must have lost so much in prestige as a result of his forces' poor showing in Finland that there should be a good chance to overthrow him. In fact, the Washington exiles say they have definite information to that effect. It may be that the reliability of their news is not quite on a par with the extreme wishfulness of their thinking. Nevertheless, there's pretty good evidence that Russians in this country are in communication with Trotsky in Mexico City, relative to the possibilities of enlisting him as head of a movement to seize control of the Moscow government.

The exiled Russians in Uncle Sam's capital are quite a colony. It includes a few old-time czarists, but they don't signify; nobody imagines that there'll be a reversion to another era of the Romanoffs.

After the czars there followed in Russia a decidedly radical sort of a republic dominated by Alexander Kerensky, today a refugee in the United States. There are some Kerensky-ites, besides Alexander, in America, but no Kerensky comeback is suggested. Russians who know him speak of Alexander as able but temperamentally unequal to dealing with such conditions as prevail in their homeland.

Kerensky was followed by Vladimir Lenin, a sure-enough Communist. Leon Trotsky, this real name is Bronstein, was his right-hand man. Indeed, he was about as prominent as Vladimir was.

Trotsky In Exile
But presently Lenin died. Trotsky was the logical individual to succeed him, but somehow Josef Stalin horned in ahead. Trotsky was radical enough, heaven knows, but Joe was even more so, and I suppose Russia was ripe for the maximum limit at that particular juncture.

Trotsky immediately lost most of his authority. Shortly he was banished to Siberia. Probably Stalin was suspicious of him; maybe with justification. It's a safe bet that Leon was sore, and it's imaginable that he did some plotting.

He escaped from Siberia, however. That was when he changed his name from Bronstein to Trotsky.

Subsequently we trace him to Geneva, Madrid, London, to the vicinity of Istanbul, Turkey, to New York and finally to Mexico City, his present place of refuge. Recently Representative Martin Dies tried to get him to come from Mexico to the United States, as a witness before Martin's congressional investigation of Communist activities in the Americas. Upon mature consideration Leon didn't come. Perhaps he thinks he sees a better chance to raise hades for Stalin in a different way.

It appears that Joe's compact with Hitler annoyed many Russian reds, Communism and Naziism being antagonistic philosophies. Still, that might not be so bad, since it seems that the average Russian doesn't know the difference. The essential point is that Stalinist Russia now is getting the tar kicked out of it by we little Finland.

Stalin's Censorship
It's a safe gamble that Stalin's censorship has kept Russians generally from learning much of the Finns' successes, but it's hard to believe that a modicum of the news hasn't trickled in.

Anyway, the old-fashioned Leninists, who hate Stalin as cordially as anybody else does, argue that now's the time for Trotsky to bounce home again and put Joe out of business.

It will be a risky venture on Leon's part. He has got nerve enough? We don't know yet.

From what the exiles tell me I judge that Trotsky is a bit more civilized than Stalin is. He's as red as it's possible to be, but best advice is to the effect that he isn't as brutal as Joe. They say he's been slightly diluted by residence in Switzerland, Spain, England, the U. S. A. and Mexico, whereas Joe remains an unqualified barbarian from the Caucasus.

And I'll say this for Leon, as my own personal verdict: He's produced considerable literature. On the subjects of government, sociology and economics he's a leftist-plus. That's admitted. But his stories of his travels not only are informative; they're funny.

It would be a relief to have a Russian boss commissar with at least a sense of humor.

Child Bride And Husband Separated For Period Of Month

Judge Wishes To Test Love Of 18-Year-Old Husband And 14-Year-Old Wife

(International News Service)
SALEM, N. J., Jan. 20.—Eighteen-year-old Edward Muhs and his "child-bride" of a week, Eleanor Hancock Muhs, 14, started a month's separation today at the direction of Judge S. Rusling Leap who wishes to test their love.

"You are a little girl," said Judge Leap to Eleanor. "You should be playing with dolls."

Muhs, a Salem glass worker, pleaded guilty to a charge of abduction sentence on the promise that he would not see Eleanor for a month. His friend, Francis Stoms, 21, who married Jeannette Vincent, in the double wedding ceremony at Stafford, Va., also received a suspended sentence on his guilty plea to aiding in the abduction of Eleanor.

During the love test period authorities are expected to reach a decision on whether Eleanor must continue her education. In his ruling, Judge Leap observed that the "proper thing to do would be to place her in a state institution where she could get training."

Two boys found some money in South Jefferson street, divided it, and one bought an air-gun. A squad of boys went cat hunting and a feline was shot. The cat owner appeared in police court and the boys today appeared in boys' court. The mayor confiscated the gun, warned the boys shooting of air-guns within the city limits is contrary to law, and sent them home.

STATE FUNERAL BEING ARRANGED FOR STATESMAN

cabinet, supreme court, congress and the diplomatic corps in attendance.

Burial was scheduled for Boise, Idaho, his home, where a state funeral also was planned.

Died At 8:45 P. M. Friday

The venerated "Lion of Idaho" died at 8:45 p. m. (EST) last night at his Connecticut ave., apartment where he had lain in a semi-coma since Tuesday. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage suffered following a fall on a bathroom rug early Tuesday morning.

With him at the end were a nurse, and his secretary for thirty years, Miss Cora Rubin. Mrs. Borah—the former Mamie McConnell, daughter of a one-time Idaho governor—lay grief stricken in an adjoining room.

Borah would have been 75 years old next June 29.

The indomitable fighting spirit that had marked his long career was in evidence until the very last. He clung to a mere thread of life for more than 30 hours after physicians had abandoned all hope that he might live.

But the lingering end by no means lessened the impact of the nation's loss. The name "Borah" was magic.

Less than two hours after Borah had died, President Roosevelt prefaced a scheduled coast-to-coast radio address from the White House with an impromptu eulogy to the departed statesman.

To a gathering of notables attending the White House conference on children in a democracy, the executive addressed these words:

"I come here tonight with a very heavy heart because shortly ago I received word of the passing of a very old friend of mine, a very great American—Senator Borah."

Purposes Identical
"I had known him for a great many years, and I realized that although perhaps on this or that or the other political problem, we may have differed from time to time—yet his purpose, my purpose and the ultimate objectives of I think everybody in this room interested in the future of America—those purposes were identical and the nation has lost one of its great leaders in his passing."

"I am glad to come here in the thought that Senator Borah of Idaho would want us to go on with the work of building a better citizenship in the days to come in the United States."

The President's impromptu eulogy was in addition to an earlier statement—released by him immediately after Borah's death—in which the chief executive paid particular praise to the senator's ascension above party lines throughout his career.

Cabinet Joins
Members of the President's cabinet joined with Mr. Roosevelt in expressions of grief, as did Borah's colleagues in the senate and the house.

The dean of the senate in point of service—he first took his seat in 1907—Borah was its recognized constitutional authority and its past master in the field of foreign relations.

But the impress of Borah's death was felt far beyond the boundaries of the nation he served so notably. To the world's leading capitals—where his influence had repeatedly been felt—went the news of his end.

His passing removed from American political life a man whose role had steadfastly been to keep the United States out of Europe's cauldron of intrigue. An isolationist at heart, Borah, perhaps more than any other senator of his time, helped shape American foreign policy of post war days.

He denounced the Versailles Treaty, he fought U. S. entrance into the league of nations, U. S. adherence to the world court, and more recently, revision of the neutrality law.

On Domestic Issues
On domestic issues, he was equally influential. A master strategist and a powerful orator, he directed the successful fight which blocked President Roosevelt's attempt to enlarge the supreme court in 1937.

Politically—in the sense of party adherence—he was frequently unpredictable. A stalwart independent who was never accused of owing allegiance to any man, Borah repeatedly broke with the GOP, its tenets and its candidates.

In 1936 he deliberately projected himself into the race for the Republican presidential nomination in an attempt to break what he called the "Wall Street" hold on the party. He frankly told intimates that he did not want the nomination for

Dewey Assails Recognition Of Soviet Russia

Denounces Roosevelt Administration For Its Part In Recognition

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 20—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today spurred his presidential campaign into the foreign policy field by toppling a general condemnation of totalitarian philosophy with a specific denunciation of the Roosevelt administration for its "star-eyed" recognition of Soviet Russia.

At the same time, Dewey urged that the United States tread a strictly neutral, "mind-our-own-business" path in foreign affairs until the time arrives when, without entanglement, this government may offer its good offices "to effect a genuine peace."

Speaking at the luncheon of the Women's National Republican club, the youthful aspirant for the Republican nomination figuratively took off the gloves and lashed out with bare knuckles at the Soviet union as well as the Roosevelt regime which extended recognition.

"In that country, Russia, a godless government had raised up to a state creed the sterile doctrines of atheism," Dewey said. "It achieved power of assassination and maintained power by the annual murder of large numbers of its own people. It is a perversion of government, abhorrent to the conscience of mankind."

MORE ABOUT BURNS

Yesterday we got a burned child safely into the hospital. His wounds were cleaned, and he was placed inside the burn-bed.

This is only the beginning of the treatment. The burned area is sprayed with a ten percent solution of tannic acid. This is done every 20 minutes until usually after a few hours, the acid causes a hard, black covering something like leather to form over the wound. This leather completely covers the raw areas of the burn and if properly treated prevents all infection from getting at the burn and causing trouble from without.

The edges of the skin around the burn should be covered with some form of antiseptic to keep them clean.

I have several times had trouble with mothers when they saw this thick black covering forming over their child's wound. Just remember, mothers, if you see this being done to your child, it is a necessary precaution. It is in time will peel off and leave a healed skin beneath it.

After the child has been placed in the burn-bed, he ought to be given plenty of water to drink because in a few hours he will begin to suffer from toxemia and his temperature will rise and he may not be able to take fluids. This rise in temperature usually begins about twelve hours after the burn if it is at all severe.

When he enters this stage, the child will first become flushed, and later the flush will be replaced by a pallor. He will begin to vomit and may have twitching movements in his hands and arms. When these symptoms make their appearance, then we know that the poisons produced by the burn are being absorbed into the blood stream. If his life is to be safe, we know too that we must dilute these poisons.

So to dilute the poisons we may inject fluids into the veins. Sometimes we give a transfusion of blood if the case is really serious. In either case, the poison is considerably diluted and so the child's chances for recovery are greatly enhanced.

This stage of toxemia may last for several days and while it does the child will require constant care. He must remain in the burn-bed and he must continue to get fluids into his veins as long as he is vomiting. If the burn has been too severe, if the poisonous substances on the burn haven't been removed, or if we cannot dilute the poisons sufficiently, the child may die.

If on the other hand we are getting the better of the fight, the temperature will fall, vomiting will stop and the child will again take fluids through the mouth. Once we get the child past this the most dangerous stage in a burn, we can hold out good hope for his recovery.

I am sure that anyone reading this column will at once see the real need of having the patient in a hospital in order to give the proper treatment for a bad burn. There they have the burn-bed already with the proper means of heating it, they have the necessary tannic acid solutions, they have the nursing care that is so urgently needed. As for the intravenous solutions that are administered and the blood transfusions that are often necessary, the only proper place to perform them is in the hospital. Mind you I've done them in the home and in some pretty desolate homes at that. It is these experiences that make me now hold out for a hospital.

AIDS TO KEEP BUDGET BALANCED DURING YEAR

Every well managed business takes stock of its goods at the end of the year. This inventory shows what the business is worth and the company can plan better for the next year.

A similar inventory can be made in the home, believes Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county. Managing a home is a business and many successful business methods may be used in the home.

Why not call a family council and talk over the inventory and finances for they concern all members of the household. Miss Markle suggests taking an inventory of all farm and home possessions, since the family assets include the land and its machinery and stock, the buildings and their furnishings, equipment, stored food supply, clothing and personal belongings. The inventory gives the present status of the family and tells something about its future needs.

It may be found that some equipment is in need of repair instead of replacement. It may reveal that all needed things cannot be obtained at once, but whatever may be disclosed, each member of the family has a chance to weigh values and determine which is most essential and will contribute most to the family welfare. Other items may be bought later as the budget permits.

Planned expenditures help to provide more of the needs when the income is limited. To make a plan for the family or for an individual, there are a few suggestions:

1. Take the size of the income. If it is variable, plan on the lowest amount to be received.

2. Decide what is needed and wanted from that income.

3. Make the plan for a month or for a year.

4. Go over any records which you may have. Compare prices of today with those at time record was kept.

5. Use group heads, such as food, clothing, shelter, savings, etc., then subdivide these heads. Take clothing for instance. If for the family, take each member individually and subdivide into coats, hats, shoes, boots, etc.

6. Keep a record for a month and compare with the plan made. If necessary, make adjustments in the next month's plan.

7. At the end of the year compare in detail the plan and the expenditures. On the basis of this analysis, make a better plan for the coming year.

Keeping within the budget makes for happier family living. Miss Markle reminds us: With a mutual understanding of the financial situation, all members of the family can work together toward the goal they wish to achieve.

FARM BOOK

A Farm Account Book prepared by Pennsylvania State College has proven valuable to many farmers throughout the state during the past year. Most farmers begin their business year the first of January, as is the case in many business concerns; so this is the ideal time to start keeping records.

This book provides ample space and listing for all farm commodities and activities. It is a satisfactory way for the securing of definite information on individual farm operation. Copies of this book may be secured by applying to your local Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

Armstrong Will Meet Montanez Next Wednesday

Henry Says "I Like Style Of Fighter Like Montanez, He Comes In"

ARMSTRONG NOT QUITE AS FAST

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Henry Armstrong is not half the fighter he used to be.

Being far more intelligent than the average run of fighters, he frankly admits it. After 200 or 300 fights, a man begins to show signs of wear and tear.

Yet he believes he could slip a lot further down the scale and still lick Pedro Montanez of the Puerto Rican boxers.

Henry and Pedro have date at Madison Square Garden next Wednesday night when they will exchange leather compliments for 15 rounds. Henry believes the exchanges won't last that long.

Usually a fighter says he "boxed" so and so. But not Henry. He always says he fought him. And that's exactly what he does.

Likes Montanez's Style
"I'm not as fast as I was," admitted Henry today, as he sat in a dressing room half the size of your kitchen. "But I think I can take Montanez. He's like a baby. He looks like a baby. He makes a lot of waste motions when he fights. I've seen him fight and I notice he always comes to the other fellow. I love that kind. They're easy to hit."

The closest approach to perpetual motion the ring has ever seen declares he would rather fight a dozen hard hitters than a fast, tricky-cutting, moving target like Lou Ambers. "Ambers was the toughest fellow I ever fought," he explained. "He doesn't hit hard, but my how that man can cut you up. I don't know how he does it, but I know a fellow doesn't feel so good even if he gets a decision over Lou."

Unlike most fighters, too, Henry disclaims any enthusiasm for the game. "When you're young, you're ambitious and full of pep and maybe you enjoy a battle now and then," he declared, "but you lose all that enthusiasm when you hit the top. Then it's strictly a business."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

A trap and skeet shoot under the supervision of representatives of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association was under way today at the Fair grounds range. Hot coffee was served the shooters in the heated clubhouse.

More than 300,000 A. B. C. pinner in all parts of the United States will roll for sweep prizes between now and March 2, according to officials of the Red Crown Handicap Bowling sweepstakes report sent out from Chicago. $50,000 in prizes will be awarded.

Date for the annual banquet of the Lawrence County Basketball league has not yet been designated according to League Secretary James Martin. However, it will occur during the latter part of February. Efforts are being made to secure President William Benswanger or a member of the Pirates to be the principal spokesman.

No date has yet been set for the next fistic encounter here. No doubt the Jefferson A. C. will glance over the almanac and see what kind of weather is promised. Some good scraps were staged by the amateurs last Monday night and the 700 fans present went away satisfied with the Evening's Event.

Irish Eddie Dolan of Waterbury knocked out Al Traino of Rochester in a welterweight fight in six rounds at Wilkes-Barre last night. Eric Seelig, New York, drew with Ralph De John, Syracuse, in 10 rounds. Seelig weighed 161.11 pounds less than De John. Joey Greb of Herkimer, N. Y., was knocked out by Pinky Foley in a lightweight fight in four rounds at Worcester, Mass., and Joe Wolcott of Merchantville, N. J., scored a technical kayo over Tiger Red Lewis of Richmond, Va., in a heavyweight fight which ended in the sixth round.

New Castle Rifle Club Is Defeated

The New Castle Rifle club lost a tough match in the Penn-Ole league last night at the Cathedral range to the Mahoning Rifle club of Youngstown 947 to 945. Thomas of New Castle and Janisky of Youngstown each shot a 194 string to be high men.

The Ellwood City rifle team will be here Monday night for an interstate match at the Cathedral at 7:30 o'clock.

Results last night: Thomas 194, Schweinberg 191, J. Moore 189, Johns 187, Houck 184. Total 945. Other scores: Hill 182, Kilbreath 181, Gardner 181, Finley 175, Huber 184, McKee 181.

Youngstown—Janisky 194, Thompson 187, Schultz, Sr. 189, Dickinson 189, Peck 188. Total 947. Other scores: Scialdone 184, Mack 185, Davis 172, Schultz, Jr. 185, W. D. Smith 182, W. R. Smith 181, Altier 168, McCormick 182, H. T. Houck 141.

GREEK ORTHODOX TOP CENTRALS

The first-half of the New Castle Church basketball league came to an end last night at the "Y" with the playing of three games. In the first game on the bill the Greek Orthodox "Fighting Spartans" downed the Central Presbyterians 34 to 19 with Johnny Poleno the scoring star with 15 of the points. Kelo was best for the Centrals.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Tidbits: Dave Luxenburg, ex-Ellwood City High athletic wizard, is versatility itself. Seems that Dave does everything but play the piccolo in the band at Albion. Luxenburg has won letters in football, basketball and track. He participates in several other minor sports, we are informed. . . "Fris" Fraser is on a scouting cruise. The genial local mentor knows a southern school which could use a tall center, something about 6 feet 3, who can play a better than average game of basketball. Here's hoping said lad is in Lawrence County. He must be a high school graduate, of course. . .

Something a little out of the ordinary happened in Butler, Wednesday, before the start of the Butler-Altoona Section III fricas. Scribe Bill Faust, Butler, at bat, "Nate" Lippe, Altoona coach, announced that the floor was not legal size. He said the front court had to be 40 feet and it was only about 36 or 37 feet. Therefore, he ruled, did the sage of Altoona, that the floor was illegal. Nor did Mr. Lippe discover the fact himself. Mr. Phil Bridenbaugh the wily coach from New Castle, had a finger in the pie. Lippe came to the writer first, remarked that he and Bridenbaugh had been talking about it. Despite the discrepancy, the game was played minus the 10 second ruling. . .

We mention the incident to give you an idea of how coaches take their athletics. They give no quarter; they don't expect any. Section III is, undoubtedly, one of the toughest chains in the WPIAL. Competition is as keen as the edge of razor. Coaches stop at nothing but victory, save one thing, that victory come in a clean, sportsmanlike manner. Lippe and Bridenbaugh probably brought up the point so that allowances can be made on the Butler court. . .

Diamond diggers: Atley Donald, a Yankee twirler, was on his way to an astounding record in 1939. Suddenly, he lost the winning formula. He set a record for a first year man, winning his first 12 starts. He finished with 13 wins against three losses. . . Marius Russo, also of the Yankees, had the best earned run percentage in the loop, .241. The catch is that he was in fewer games than Grove or Lyons. He won eight and lost three. . .

Bits of this and that: Five of Tennessee's 1940 opponents are: Mercer, Chattanooga, Florida, Virginia and Southwestern. Nuf said. . . 'Tis rumored again that Henry Armstrong is ready to hang the gloves in favor of a motion picture career. . . A survey recently revealed that 9,500 students at the University of Minnesota participate regularly in some form of sports. . .

Scotland Laners Eke Out 32-30 Section 20 Triumph Friday Night

In one of the closest and hardest fought Section 20 tiffs of the season, Union Township eke out a 32-30 victory over Mt. Jackson High, Friday night at Mt. Jackson.

The flippers from the Scotland Lane section held a 9-8 advantage as the opening period ended. With Paden hitting the lace four times in the second period, the "Jacks" were in the thick of the game by the time hostilities ended in the second quarter. As the cagers trotted off the hardwood for the intermission, the scoreboard showed a 19-19 deadlock.

Field goals by Pilch and Mateja, coupled with successful foul shots by Boron and Severa, put the Unionites in front, 26-25, at the end of the third stanza. Double deckers by Razzano and Paden, besides a foul by Razzano, put the "Jacks" under the wire as the tilt ended.

P. Razzano and Paden made the cords sing a merry tune, chalking up 26 points between them. Pilch, Covelli and Boron led Union's attack. The triumph put Union in second place.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

With the coldest weather since 1936, we find quite a few ice skaters... yes, some are braving the cold waves and through the efforts are becoming very good at this sport... there is nothing like a good skating party to keep one fit. We hope you all stay on your feet.

We pick up the papers and we read about the Finnish war... we sit around the open fire and we talk about the Finnish war... and we feel down in our hearts that we like the Finnish people... and all in all... do you know all there is to know about these wonderful people? Probably not... but you can add more to your store of knowledge by attending the Finnish Relief Program tomorrow in the Epworth Methodist church... it starts at three o'clock, and a speaker who knows what he is talking about will give you a splendid informative lecture... his topic is "Why Finland Fights"... A large crowd is expected, so don't be late. You will enjoy this program.

They are getting automobiles so that all you have to do is just sit there and steer the thing. A couple of cars are on the market now that are almost just this. But it still takes brain power to know when to use speed and when not to... that is one thing the manufacturer can't sell with his product... good common sense.

Yesterday a large group from the high school started that part of their life known as the preparation for graduation... yesterday was spent in fun... at the high school and then the class in a whole body at the Field Club. They are the kings and queens at the school now... for a short time only, and then they will be out in the wide, wide world to make their own or those who will have the opportunity to attend a higher form of education. We wish them all the best in life and that things will be adjusted and all will have a job to fulfill... until graduation, boys and girls... have a good time.

Are you planning on attending at least one church service tomorrow?

Trading In New York Market Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The stock market gave a listless performance today, with leaders backing and filling over a narrow and irregular price range to the final bell.

There were few individual features and turnover, reflecting the light attendance in Wall Street, was limited to about 300,000 shares.

Stocks were irregularly higher at the opening, but slipped from their best levels before the end of the first hour. Light pressure on some of the steel shares stalled rallying attempts.

B. M. T. issues were early features on a belated response to the company's application for a $2,000,000 P. E. loan to assist in completion of unification plans. The preferred was up more than 3 points and the common about half as much at one time, but reaching new 1939-40 peaks.

Standard Gas shares rallied moderately from yesterday's reaction to new lows. Commonwealth & Southern again was an active feature, with blocks running to 10,000 shares at last night's close of 1 1/2.

Bethlehem and U. S. Steel converted opening gains into moderate losses before the close. General Motors and Chrysler held around previous final quotations. These were typical of movements in most leaders.

Westinghouse was up more than a point at its high, while Du Pont lost a point.

Coroner Seeks Safer Motors

Gives Ideas On Auto Construction After Viewing Death Toll

(International News Service)

CHICAGO.—On the basis of his four years' experience as county coroner at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dr. B. L. Knight in a letter published in the Journal of the American Medical Association makes the following "safety construction" suggestions to automobile manufacturers:

"1. Bumper all around: A bumper running entirely around the car (removable section to change tires). In most fatal accidents the bumper of one car catches into the front or rear wheel of the other car and both turn over, or the end of the front bumper is pushed into the front wheel and the car darts off the road.

Turtle-Shaped Body

"2. Turtle or helmet-shaped body: The body should be brought to the bumper on the sides at the bottom so that the fenders are entirely beneath the body. The running board—if any—should also be covered by the body of the car. Door handles should be hinged and dropped into a well in the door.

"3. Knock out windshield: With safety glass in the windshield, the doctor now sees severe head and neck injuries. The windshield should be so designed that a force of 50 pounds from the inside would loosen the entire windshield without breaking it."

No Sharp Corners
Dr. Knight also suggests steering wheels constructed of material that will bend but not break elimination of sharp corners on the instrument panel, strong support behind the engine and elimination of sharp ornaments near the front of the car.

Generally, however, Dr. Knight said it was his experience that most motor accidents resulted from lack of proper judgement by drivers, and not from alcohol or too fast driving. He recommends that the A. M. A. form a special committee to study the problem of auto accidents in the light of reports from coroners throughout the nation.

Mrs. Borah May Become Senator

Governor Of Idaho Is Silent On Appointment However—State In Grief

(International News Service)
BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 20.—Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen and all people of Idaho were bowed in grief today over the death of their friend and idol, Senator William Borah.

Gov. Bottolfsen, long-time friend of the famous Idaho senator, sadly declined to make any comment on his choice of a successor to Borah. Political observers believe the governor may follow the precedent of other governors and name Mrs. Borah, the widow, to serve the remainder of Borah's term in the senate.

Borah last visited Boise in the summer of 1937. He was active during his stay and day after day his office was jammed by friends and favor seekers. He listened to everyone.

This was the last time Idaho saw him—the last time he was seen riding through the foothills near Boise on his favorite horse, or strolling through the business district with head down against the wind.

That was the last time he uttered an Idaho campaign speech or addressed his grange friends or spoke to informal groups that called upon him.

No Idahoan ever commanded the absolute respect of his neighbors more completely than did Bill Borah.
